Welcome to Eastham

TO those who have been here before, we say "hello, neighbor, we are awfully glad to see you." You come back year after year because you know Eastham, and what it has to offer, and you love it as we do. You have heard the wind in the pines, have seen the geese flying in their wedge formations, have fought the white capped ocean on the back side, and have relaxed in the warmer bay waters, and the more placid ponds. To those of you who are making their first visit we are tickled to death to say "hello" . . . and we sincerely hope that the only crisis you face while vacationing is the crisis of decision—where shall I swim today? Where shall I go fishing or hiking, or bicycling? Should I throw this quahaug back because it will pass thru the ring? Neighbors, it is your vacation, so make the most of it.

For your information about Eastham: Total area 14.60 sq. mi. Permanent population 2309. Tax rate, per thousand $31.60. Assessed valuation $45,272,430.00. Total tax received on property $2,145,913.00 as of 1973.

Important note: register at the town hall. In case of emergency, it may be easier to find you. Thank you and have fun . . . Eastham Vacationist's Handbook Committee.

Lets Go Fishing with the Eastham Captains . . .

The record catch in recent years was a seventy-one pound striper. The one pictured below was over sixty pounds, brought in by one of the charter boats, skippered by an Eastham "captain". If fishing is your bag make a date with one of the skippers below . . . You can beat the high cost of living and have fun too, fishing in the bay (nature's fish bowl) where not only stripers but also tuna, blues, mackerel and countless other species abound.

EASTHAM HISTORICAL SOCIETY, INC.

"Preserving the Past for the Future"

Founded in 1963, the Society now numbers 432 members. Its object is to create and foster interest in Eastham, preserve and collect artifacts, historical documents and photographs and promote historical research.

The photograph shows the exterior of the restored, one-room schoolhouse of 1869—located opposite the Visitors' Center of the Cape Cod National Seashore—now housing the Museum.

The Museum will open Saturday, June 29, from 2 to 5 P.M. From then on it will be open Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 2 to 5 P.M. during July and August. In September the Museum will be open on Saturday P.M. only. Admission is 25¢ except for pre-school children.

New members are welcome to the Society. Dues are $1.00 for adults and 50¢ for children and suitable gifts to the Museum may be left there or at the Public Library on Samoset Road. Send applications to Eastham Historical Society, Box 8, Eastham 02642.

A leisurely walk along the ocean's edge.

Those Great “Do-Nothing-Days”

The right tool but the wrong place. Whether he gets his quahaugs or not matters little . . . he is getting his quota of sunshine and Atlantic surf.

Hints For Eastham Visitors

CALL AT TOWN HALL . . .

First, call at Town Hall where you can get your shell fish or fishing license and inquire about marina rentals for small boats in Eastham's Marina at Rock Harbor. Ask also about charges for use of beaches in National Seashore. It might be wise to register your name and cottage location in case of emergency.

THEN THE VISITOR CENTER . . .

Next, we suggest a visit to the National Seashore Visitors Center, located off Route 6 above Salt Pond. Here Park personnel can answer questions and exhibits, movies and pamphlets will give you a better picture of Cape Cod in general and Eastham in particular, than days of hit or miss wandering. Alongside the Center is the now famous outdoor amphitheater where lectures and musical entertainment is scheduled all summer — programs are available at the Center.

THOSE GREAT “DO-NOTHING DAYS” . . .

Swimming, sun bathing and just plain loafing on the beach are one of the features of summertime at Eastham. For those who prefer surf, cold water and miles of beautiful sand, Coast Guard and Nauset Light Beaches are hard to beat. Each has a bath house and life guards and a section is reserved for surfers only. Both beaches are subject to the rules and regulations of the National Seashore.

PULLING FOR EASTHAM

The Eastham Non-Resident Association of Taxpayers, one of the several civic minded groups who intend to keep their fingers on the pulse of the town, was organized in 1954. The Association membership now consists of 750 families, the great majority of whom are residents and taxpayers of Massachusetts, although the group also represents many of the other states and some foreign countries. Holding meetings twice a year, July 4 and August 24 in 1974, the group welcomes to its membership those who are interested and are willing to work to further develop and maintain the "rural and seashore character of Eastham, to express the consensus of non-voting taxpayers concerning important community matters, and to keep its membership informed of new developments in Eastham and the National Seashore Park," so says its president, Frederick J. Eimert, of Needham, Mass. Dues are $1.00 per year and those interested are urged to attend its meetings.

Here, browsers are always welcome. Craftsmen love their work and love to talk about it with anyone who is genuinely interested. The one-of-a-kind pieces they produce — pottery, jewelry, paintings, prints, wood carving, stained glass — may be useful or purely decorative. All will be handcrafted with creative imagination and the highest professional standards. These make the most thoughtful gifts. But don't forget to give yourself a present as a lasting reminder of your visit to Cape Cod.

Summer craft shows, exhibits and church fairs offer an opportunity to see the work of many of these talented people. Members of the Artists and Craftsmen's Guild of the Outer Cape will have two shows in Orleans on Wednesday, July 10 and Thursday, August first. The Society of Cape Cod Craftsmen will hold their annual two-day show under the tent on the elementary school grounds in Brewster on Wednesday and Thursday, August 7 and 8. Events not to be missed!

CAPE COD and other SEACOAST SCENES

A worthwhile investment

With our works in many private collections in the United States, Canada and the Virgin Islands, they are sought more and more as an investment that will increase in value. Superb quality and unusual beauty for your home, offices or business premises—or give as a special gift. Select an oil or watercolor marine painting by an artist who knows ship life from actual square-rig experience at sea.

Also, paintings done to your order.

Route 6, North Eastham • 255-2329

What do you do on the Cape in winter? A group of youthful riders who participated in a riding meet sponsored by the Eastham Police Association last winter.

A crises of decision! To build sandcastles or wait for the stripers to bite.

1 Bay Scallop, 2 Razorfish, 3 Little Neck (Quahog), 4 Oyster, 5 Blue Mussel, 6 Cherrystone (Quahog), 7 Sea Clam, 8 Steamer (Soft Shell Clam), 9 Sharp (Quahog), 10 Soft Shell Clam. All of these shellfish can be used to make clam cakes, chowder, pies, casseroles and stews. In addition Numbers 1, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8 can be fried.

OVERCOMING THE ENERGY CRISIS AND INFLATION IN SIX EASY(?) STEPS.

This recipe, if followed faithfully, will guarantee the above. It evolves around the preparation of a six course dinner obtained almost entirely within the Eastham area.

Preparation: while registering at the town hall, which you should do to make it easier to find you in case of emergency, obtain a shell fish license. Beg, borrow or buy a quahaug rake and a pail . . . preferably one with a perforated bottom.

First and second course: Sunday morning, if the tides are right, (refer to shell fish chart) go to the Salt Pond on Route Six, near the town hall, and get your prescribed quota of quahaugs. If unfamiliar with the procedure of quahauging, ask the shell fish warden . . . he is most accommodating. Separate the small ones (cherry stones) from the largest, which are the grand-daddies of the same family. Scrub well and refrigerate until ready to use. You now have the makings of cherry stones on the half shell, baked stuffed quahaugs (clams casino), and quahaug chowder. Refer to recipe page for the methods used. If you are the 'cordon bleu' type and would like to experiment with something a little different, try blue mussels in garlic butter. And where do you find them? A good place is Nauset Marsh, along its myriad banks and channels. In obtaining mussels you may well be knee deep, and deeper, in the gooey sediment of the marsh. At this time a flat bottomed boat would be helpful . . . something to lean on when the going gets tough. Read the recipe page for one of the most enjoyable appetizers you can serve.

Third course: striped bass salad. For this one save your bass fish heads and refer to recipe page.

Fourth course: flounder, available in parts of the Nauset Marsh, and other nearby waters and striped bass. Try surf casting in the outer beach. Usually a sure thing if you go out with the Eastham Captains out of Rock Harbor. Refer to recipe page for several methods of preparation.

Fifth course: (if you have room) Cranberry crunch with whipped cream. Refer to recipes.

Now for the final course: (the kids will hate me for this). You and the missus have done all the work. Let the kids wash the dishes and you two go out to the bay side and watch the glorious sunset over the target ship in the bay, or drive out to the ocean side and listen to the pounding of the surf and just enjoy a "do nothing" evening. It has been a good day and it hasn't cost you too much, and the energy involved hasn't measured in gallons at so much per gallon . . . and if you don't turn on your television set you will completely forget about the many faceted crises waiting for you at home . . . and you will sleep like a Cape Codder.

EASTHAM WEATHER

We in Eastham are fortunate regarding our weather. Situated between the Atlantic Ocean and Cape Cod Bay, the stabilizing effect of both bodies of water, tend to keep Eastham cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter than the mainland.

SALT MAKING

Eastham at one time had as many as fifty salt-making plants. The salt-making business reached its peak about 1830 when western and foreign salt started coming in and the price of pine lumber from Maine, used for making vats, increased prohibitively. Dr. Palfrey at the Bicentennial in Barnstable, in 1839 spoke of voyaging 20 miles, south of Provincetown, along a shore which seemed built of salt vats. At that time it took more than 300 gallons of sea water to make a bushel of salt, and boiled down, was worth $8.00. Solar evaporation of salt was patented in 1799 by a Dennis man.

AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS

Indians raised quantities of corn in Eastham on what was called the Plains of Nauset, and white settlers produced it for export. From one to three thousand bushels were sold from the town in some years. Single farms raised as much as five hundred bushels of grain, and a yield of 800 bushels was credited to one farm. As late as 1920 there were 1700 acres with hardly a vegetable mould, that had once produced corn and wheat. A couple of decades after the landing of the Pilgrims, people in Plymouth seriously considered transplanting the whole Plymouth Colony to the flat and sea girt town of Eastham, largely because of the fertile acres.

The vagaries of the stormy Atlantic. A few years ago, when this picture was taken, this boulder was completely uncovered. Today just a bare tip is seen on the beach at Nauset Light. To determine the extent and direction of current flow, a complete study of the Cape shoreline has been given high priority.

A bit of nostalgia . . . A clam bake on Cedar Banks overlooking Nauset Marsh, with former Eastham Police chief Wynn Knowles as bake-master. Two hundred lobsters, bushels of baking potatoes, a gross of green jacketed sweet corn, pails of steamers, flounder by the score . . . and of course, a visit to the ghostly fleet of rum runners outside the three mile limit — for this was the era of prohibition.

THE THREE SISTERS (Lighthouses)

In 1838 three lighthouses were erected on the Atlantic side of town, about 1 mile north of Nauset Harbor, which have proved to be of great benefit to vessels coming into Boston Harbor from foreign countries, or passing around the Cape—as no one has been shipwrecked on this part of the shore since they were built, which was frequently the case before. Captain Michael Collins, the present keeper of the light, recommended that they be built in this place. (this was written in 1844)

A Menu from Eastham's Waters

Appetizers: cherry stones on the half shell; baked stuffed quahaugs; mussels in garlic butter

Chowder: quahaug of course

Entrees: striped bass (baked stuffed or steaked); flounder (pan fried or stuffed and baked)

Dessert: cranberry crunch with whipped cream

Stuffed quahaugs: this is a basic recipe and the quantity would vary with the luck you have at Salt Pond or wherever you find them. However 15 or 20 quahaugs would do nicely. Therefore, use the largest of the quahaugs and after scrubbing well add enough water to just cover them and bring to a boil, until the shells open. Strain and separate, saving the broth. Put bodies through coarse grinder or chop very fine and set aside. In heavy kettle try out a $\frac{1}{4}$ pound of salt pork, add same amount of butter or oleo. To this add (also coarse ground or finely chopped, two green peppers, three stalks of celery, one medium sized onion and sauté till done. To this add chopped quahaugs with the broth, stir well and simmer about five minutes. Take off heat and add either bread crumbs or crushed Ritz crackers until you obtain a stiff consistency. Fill smaller size shells, sprinkle bacon bits and brown in broiler. Serve piping hot. This method will lend itself well to freezing for future use.

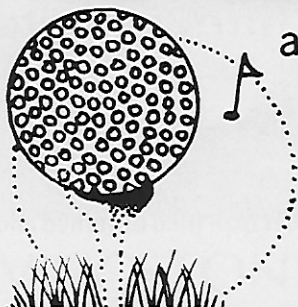

Mussels in garlic butter: these may be steamed, or boiled, and eaten very much like steamers, although they are a good deal richer and a few will go a long way. They do, however, make delicious hors d'oeuvres. After steaming open, remove the orange colored bodies and marinate in garlic butter and serve hot on toast or crackers with a toothpick. To make garlic butter marinate garlic cloves in butter overnight and use as needed. To freeze mussels cover with liquid (melted) butter in small portions and reheat as needed.

Quahaug chowder: steam quahaugs until they open, strain and separate bodies from broth and set aside. Try out $\frac{1}{4}$ pound salt pork, add $\frac{1}{4}$ pound butter, add two cups chopped or sliced onions, and sauté until light brown, stir in 4 tbs. flour and cook, using low heat. Add quahaug broth and a quart of diced potatoes, bring to a boil. When potatoes are done, add two quarts of hot milk, $\frac{1}{2}$ pint of cream. Add one quart of chopped quahaugs last of all . . . season to taste and simmer about five minutes. Do not boil. Serve with crackers. The chowder will taste much better the next day.

Striped bass salad: you have saved the heads, tails and the flanks of the bass caught. Cover with water and bring to boil, and let stand in its own broth until cool. Then pick out the chunks of white meat, being sure to remove all bones. By adding shredded lettuce or celery and mayonnaise this will make a sandwich spread. Also mound it on a bed of lettuce, surround it with quartered tomatoes, hard boiled eggs, ripe olives, carrots, radish buds, sliced cucumbers, and your favorite dressing, and it's a meal in itself.

Entrees: here you have several choices. The bass may be stuffed (any commercial stuffing) whole and baked with bacon or salt pork slices to keep it self basting, or it may be steaked and broiled over an open fire . . . or in your own oven. When steaking, use bass over ten pounds for best results, cutting steaks about three quarters of an inch thick. Smaller bass may be baked whole, seasoned, buttered and wrapped in foil at 375° . . . a glassful of white wine before baking will add to the flavor. Flounder may be fileted, dredged in flour, and pan fried and served with tartar sauce for a delicious dish. A little more work but very satisfying is baked stuffed flounder. Take the smaller of the filets, using a commercial stuffing, add scallops, lobster or chopped shrimp. Place filets on greased sheet pan, cover each with the stuffing and place other filets, sandwich style. Cover with aluminum foil and bake about thirty minutes at 375° . . . the last five minutes uncovered. Add a spoonful of sherry flavored cream sauce . . . or Newburg if available, to enhance the flavor. Mm mm mm good.

Dessert: cranberry crunch with whipped cream, simple to make and excellent. Mix together one cup uncooked rolled oats, 1/2 cup of flour, and one cup of brown sugar. Cut in 1/2 cup of butter until crumbly. Place one half mixture in an 8 by 8 sheet pan. Cover with two cups cranberry sauce. Top with balance of mixture. Bake forty-five minutes at 350°. Cut into squares and while still hot and serve with ice cream or whipped cream.

CHURCH SERVICES

(More than three hundred years—in 1672 to be exact—Samuel Treat became the town's first minister, and thundered his message of hell-fire and damnation. As a historian of the times declared: "his voice was so loud when speaking it could be heard at a great distance from the meeting house, even in the midst of the winds that blowed over the plains of Nauset".)
